The 2014 IUE-CWA Division & Training Meeting was a great success!

Our IUE-CWA Division meeting was a tremendous success. I want to thank all of our IUE members, officers, and staff who came together at this event in the spirit of making our union the best that it can be. A record number of Locals attended to take advantage of the many training classes and to learn about IUE’s new programs and plans for the upcoming year. Over 275 members were present as I had the pleasure of opening the plenary session and discussed our IUE slogan “Inspired, Unified, Engaged.” AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Liz Shuler gave an inspiring keynote address, and our packed agenda also included CWA Secretary-Treasurer Annie Hill, a presentation on money in politics by Liz Kennedy and a video address from U.S. Senator Elizabeth Warren. The new IUE-CWA new member video was debuted, as was the recently completed SCA Alliance informational/organizing video. IUE-CWA Political Program Manager Heather Atkinson reported on priority issues for the upcoming year—such as continuing to fight the TPP, and engaging in the 2014 midterm elections. Attendees also heard reports from the Women’s Committee, Diversity Committee, LEAN and Treasure Hunt programs, SCA Alliance, Mentorship program and more. Mentees Chad Cronan, Bianca McManus, and Cohlette Carlino spoke about their rewarding experiences in the Mentorship program over the past year. We presented newly chartered SCA Local 83222 President Bianca McManus with a framed copy of their charter, and officially welcomed them into the IUE family. All of the officers and members in attendance signed the huge TPP banner to send a message to our elected officials that we will not sit idly by and let corporations craft trade deals that destroy American jobs! The training sessions included Political Bootcamp, Media and Messaging, Financial Training, Steward and Bargaining Training, LEAN training, Health and Safety training, and internal organizing training. Local officers and members came out of the training sessions inspired and informed and ready to go back to their locals and use what they had learned! The day before the main meeting, the IUE-CWA Mentorship program met and shared their experience in the program thus far, and the IUE-CWA Diversity Steering Committee came together for the first time to plan the 2014 fall Diversity meeting. A great time was had by all as members, officers, and staff came together to learn, share, and celebrate being part of the Force for Working Families that is IUE-CWA. Assistant to the President Willie Thorpe reminded all Locals to plan ahead to send delegates to the June 2015 IUE-CWA Conference and CWA Convention in Detroit, Michigan. Watch for a call letter for the Convention in early 2015!

I would like to thank everyone who took the time to participate in our Division meeting, helping to shape the future of the IUE. We forge ahead in solidarity—Inspired, Unified, Engaged!

In Unity,
Jim Clark
President
Extremist groups have been attempting to advance "right to work" legislation across the country. The latest attacks have come in Missouri, Kentucky and Ohio. Fortunately, union activists and our allies have been successful in pushing back against these corporate-funded attacks on working people. In Kentucky, "right to work" legislation was brought to a vote in February, but pro-worker elected officials in the Kentucky House of Representatives blocked this move, and the bill was defeated. Union members and community leaders came out in protest to the bill, and IUE-CWA Local 761 members played a key role in these events. In Missouri the State House of Representatives defeated a "right to work" measure in April. The bill was voted down by legislators from both sides of the aisle, demonstrating that both Democrats and Republicans recognize the harmful impacts of "right to work" on our communities. IUE-CWA members from Local 1116 in St. Joseph Missouri have been playing an active role in pushing back "right to work" in their state. In Ohio, voters resoundingly rejected the SB 5 attack on collective bargaining rights in 2011. We have not yet seen a "right to work" policy move forward in Ohio, but we anticipate we could see a bill or ballot measure introduced in 2015. Labor groups and allies are coming together in Ohio to fight back "right to work" if and when it is introduced. We know "right to work" is wrong, because we can see the stark difference in quality of life between those states that are "right to work" and those that are free-bargaining states. The average monthly income of a household in a "right to work" state is $500 less than those in free bargaining states, and workplace fatalities are 36% higher in "right to work states." Per-pupil spending by public schools is over $3400 less, and graduation rates are lower. The bottom line is that life is worse in "right to work states." These policies are wrong for our members and wrong for our communities. We will continue to fight against these attacks aimed at working people.

IUE-CWA activists celebrate the legacy of Latino Labor Leader, Cesar Chavez

On March 31 IUE-CWA members took part in the annual Cesar E. Chavez “March for Justice” in San Antonio, Texas along with thousands of other labor and community members. Cesar Chavez is a folk hero and was a leader of the labor movement, who began organizing farm workers in the 1960s. Chavez was a migrant farmer himself as a young boy, and understood first-hand the struggles that farm workers faced—extremely low-wages, dangerous working conditions, and minimal rights on the job. Chavez was inspired to organize farm workers through his experiences, and founded National Farm Workers Association (NFWA) in 1962. Chavez began to win protections for farm workers, such as a minimum wage and unemployment insurance, advocated for farm workers’ right to collective bargaining. Through his work over three decades, Chavez organized and won collective bargaining. Chavez was a migrant farmer who began organizing farm workers in the 1960s. On April 7, 2014 Union Brother Ron Jessie suffered what appeared to be heart failure on the job, and his union brother came to his aid helping to save his life. When Ron went down 911 was called immediately! Rushing to help Ron was Ken Oberton, Joe Hunley and Darren McGeorge. With little to no pulse Ken and Darren started CPR, while Joe ran to get a defibrillator. When Joe returned he assisted with Ron’s conduction, his first responder training kicked in and he used the defibrillator to shock the heart. By the time the EMT’s arrived, Ron’s co-workers had him stabilized. It was later determined that Ron suffered a low blood sugar attack but his union brothers saved his life never-the-less. We are very proud of Joe, Darren and Ken they stepped up and did a wonderful and courageous act to save Ron Jessie’s life. Ron, a dedicated union member for 40 years, is at home recovering and is expected to return to work soon. We all wish him a speedy recovery!

Siemens Plant in Norwood, Ohio, are proud to build large and small frame electric motors with horse power ranging from 250 to 18,000- used to run a small conveyor in large oil refineries located in the ocean.

On April 28th, in honor of Workers’ Memorial Day IUE-CWA members put up posters inside the plant and everyone wore stickers to mourn workers who have been injured or lost their lives on the job. Everyone participated, here are a few of our members paying tribute.

Huston “Hooty” Lee Stogsdill
Tribute
Born February 20, 1937 in Somerset, Kentucky, Died on February 6, 2014. Hooty was a forklift driver for Best Foods (now Phoenix Brands) in Indianapolis, Indiana for 46 years and 8 months, he started at the age of 16 years old and retired in 1999.

We’re a small production local of only 15 employees, but many members talk of the good times they had with Hooty and mourn the loss of their brother. I’ve been a member of Local 302 for 3 years and have heard so many great tales of Hooty fishing, hunting and even roller-skating. It’s hard to imagine working in one place for 46 years in this day and age. The friendships Hooty forged and the people’s lives he has touched are quite amazing. You have to pay tribute and respect to any one that devotes 46 years at any job. I’d like everyone to take a moment and pray for his loved ones to endure their loss.

Who exactly is “Family” under the Family Medical Leave Act?

Passed by Congress in 1993 after advocacy by the labor movement and our allies, the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA) was created “to balance the demands of the workplace with the needs of families” by ensuring that most American workers can take some unpaid leave to care for themselves or family members. By many accounts, it is the single most important pro-worker legislation passed since the New Deal. Although IUE-CWA’s reps and stewards are well versed at helping members determine their leave entitlement under this law, some requirements are more complicated than they appear. Here are a few things you might not have known about the definition of “Family” under the FMLA:

1) The Definitions of “child,” and “parent” are not as straightforward as they might appear:
Most people know that the FMLA entitles qualified workers to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave to care for a spouse, child, or parent with a serious health condition. But did you know that “son,” “daughter” and “parent” don’t necessarily have to mean a biological parent or child? The FMLA defines a “son or daughter” broadly. It can mean biological, adopted, foster, stepchild, legal ward, or a child of a person standing in loco parentis. This broad definition reflects the lived reality of children in the United States, many of whom are cared for by someone other than their biological parent. An employee is serving in loco parentis if they actually have day-to-day responsibility for caring for a child (including financial support and/or other duties normally associated with parenthood), even if they have no legal custody of the child. If the employer asks for documentation of an “in loco parentis” relationship, such documentation may take the form of a simple statement asserting the relationship.

2) Adult Children under the FMLA
Eligible employees may take time off to care for a “son or daughter” (using the same broad definition described above) who is either under 18 years of age or is 18 years of age or older and “incapable of self-care because of a mental or physical disability” at the time FMLA leave is to commence. But what does “incapable of self-care” mean? Under the FMLA, an individual who is incapable of self-care is someone who requires active assistance or supervision in three or more activities of daily living. This can include grooming and hygiene, bathing, dressing, eating, cooking, cleaning, shopping, transportation, maintaining a residence, or using a telephone or a post office. This list is not exhaustive, and even an adult who has an impairment that is episodic or in remission, or whose disability is controlled using medication or other assistive devices, may qualify, depending on the circumstances.

3) Same-sex marriage and the FMLA
With same-sex marriage now recognized in 19 states and the District of Columbia, some members may have questions about whether they are entitled to leave under the FMLA to care for their same-sex spouse with a serious health condition. For now, the FMLA defines “spouse” by following the state law definition of marriage in the state where the worker resides. So if the employee lives in a state where same-sex marriage is recognized, and if they are legally married in that state, they are covered (even if they work in another state). However, the Department of Labor announced on June 20, 2014 a plan to change this definition to a “state of celebration” definition. Once the rule is changed, this would mean that a person in a same-sex marriage celebrated in any state where same-sex marriage is legal would be covered no matter where they live or work. Stay tuned, this change is on the horizon.

REGION 3 REPORT
by JOE GIFFI, Director

It’s hard to believe we’re halfway through 2014 already!

Our schedules have been unusually packed with bargaining contracts in every corner of Region 3, clearly the result of everyone trying to survive the last five years of utter economic devastation. We have been rolling over contracts and creating reopener clauses for Health Care and Pensions. Those same economic pressures have caused many other situations all over Region 3 and the parts of Regions 7 & 8 that I have responsibility for, difficult issues such as sales of businesses and bankruptcy filings. We appreciate everyone’s understanding and patience. We are committed to keeping up our high level of service no matter what.

The good news is that most difficult issues I have responsibility for, difficult issues such as sales of businesses and bankruptcies have been successful and non-concessionary.

On the other hand we still have CBAs that it seems will never get settled, like the one at L 81381 Monroe County Social Workary. has been successful and non-concessionary in negotiating committee on this in order to keep an eye on our members’ and retirees’ benefits.

And who isn’t excited about the upcoming political battles?!? (ha! ha! not me)! We have to fight harder than ever to keep the extremists from legislating away everything that we fought so hard to get. I know it can be annoying to get political communications, but we really need your participation where ever you can.

Here’s hoping you have a safe and very enjoyable summer!!! Below I leave you with a few photos of some of our Locals’ Members.

Fraternally,

Joe

REGION 7 REPORT
by KEN REAM, Director

I have been trying to travel around to meet some of your Locals. With so many Locals, it will take some time to get to everyone. I did recently have the chance to meet Local 436 Ventra, in Ionia, MI. The office and members of this Local are doing a tremendous job. In a short period of time, their membership has almost doubled to over 1,000 members. They hope to reach nearly 1,200 members very soon!

Ventra makes chrome bumpers for the truck/automotive industry. They make the chrome bumpers for the Dodge Ram 1500s Pickup. Because of the great skills, dedication, and abilities of our members at Local 436, the plant was recently awarded the “Chrysler 2013 Launch Award.”

We have been very busy lately. Nearly all of my staff are currently in contract negotiations and some of them have several going on at the same time.

To give just one example, last week Howard Foshinbaur reached a tentative agreement with Local 1060 Alston Power around midnight in Danville, Illinois. He then drove some 3½ hours to be in Fort Wayne, Indiana, at 4:30 a.m. to attend all day ratification meetings for Local 963 Rea Magnet Wire.

In the end, we reached new agreements at both locations. I hate to just single Howard out because all our staff do great work. As good as our staff are, however, they could not do anything without the hard work and dedication of our Local officers and members.

It is you who are out there every day battling these companies to help our members work safely and take care of their families.

In addition to all of the recent contract negotiations, we have been involved in many grievance meetings, arbitrations etc. Bob Sutton just completed an arbitration concerning attendance bonuses at Local 630 Bacharach near Pittsburgh, PA. Tommy Thurston and Local 173 Energizer, Verona, VA, just completed a discharge arbitration.

We are still waiting to receive the arbitrators’ awards, but I think both of these Locals and Bob and Tommy did an excellent job in presenting their cases.

Finally, don’t forget that 2014 is an election year. Not only will all of our Local Union officers be up for election this fall, we also have many Congressional and Senate races that need our support. I know that we all get tired of politics, but remember, all of these hard fought grievances, negotiations, and arbitrations do not mean a thing if some politician writes a law which contradicts them. Keep up the good work Sisters and Brothers. I’m proud of each and every one of you!

Take Care,

Ken Ream

The Bolt IUE Division News continues after the Welcome Brothers and Sisters. As most all of you know, I accepted the position of Compliance Director for the IUE-CWA Division. It has been quite a challenge but I would like to use this opportunity to express my gratitude to the many, many local officers who have provided the information I requested. It is my pleasure to work with so many of you. My assignment is very specific. I must coordinate our efforts to get all Locals up to speed for the IUE-CWA’s 21st Century Local program which includes becoming compliant with the “Fully Functioning Resolution” passed at the CWA Convention in 2013.

Over the last couple of months, we have established a system to record the information we get from the locals, convert it to electronic files and keep it all in one place. Our new system will allow us to better understand the needs of our locals and how we can help them. The need for the compliance position is very apparent when we see how much help some of our locals need with accounting and filing reports. Not filing reports accurately or in a timely manner as required by law may endanger the nonprofit status of the Union. Failure to file, or filing late (in some cases) could also lead to financial penalties. Unfortunately, this can happen when we don’t have a smooth transition of officers at election time.

A fully functioning local (as it relates to financial responsibilities), is a local that has filed their LM Reports with the Department of Labor and their 990 Forms (or its equivalent) with the IRS, and which has a well-functioning financial process in place. Each Local must have their books audited each year by Trustees, an audit committee or an accountant. A copy of the audit report must be provided to CWA as outlined in the CWA Constitution. Also, each local must have a copy of their local bylaws on file with the Department of Labor and a copy on file with CWA. If the bylaws have been amended, a copy of the amended bylaws must be provided to the Department of Labor when the local files their LM Report.

In March, I mailed a letter to every local President requesting copies of forms required by the Department of Labor and other forms required by the Internal Revenue Service. It has come to my attention that some locals did not receive that letter, so I have included a list of the needed information below:

- A copy of the local’s LM-2 or LM-3 or LM-4, whichever applies for your most recent fiscal year end
- A copy of the local’s Form 990, 990EZ or the E-postcard, whichever applies for your most recent fiscal year end
- A copy of the Local By-Laws
- A copy of the Yearly Local Audit Report form signed by the person(s) who audit the books

The responsibilities of local unions and their officers are spelled out in detail in the CWA Constitution in Article XIII Section 9. You must continue to file the appropriate reports with the DOL and the IRS. We will not file them for you. We will scan the copies you send us and create an electronic file on the server here at headquarters and forward a copy to CWA for their files. Please send the information to me at:

Roger D. Deel
2701 Dryden Rd.
Dayton, OH 45439

Please call me if you need any help with any of your reports. I can be reached at 937-293-5959 or by email at rdeel@cwa.org, and we will work together to complete your forms. I may not be able to answer every question, but I am confident we can find the answer for you. I look forward to working with you.

Many of you have had the opportunity to meet Rusty Franklin either at one of our conferences or maybe in your plant where he worked with our LEAN High Performance Program. Rusty was a character and if you ever met him you could not forget him. He would always greet you with a smile and usually he had a story to tell you. If you ever heard Rusty speak you knew immediately that he had a passion for his work and for working people.

Rusty started his working career as a coal miner in West Virginia. He was a union member and that passion for working people became evident to the leadership of the United Mine Workers of America (UMWA). Rusty was offered the opportunity to become an International Union Representative. He served in that position for several years before starting his own business, Partners in Progress and most recently Rusty Franklin’s Consulting. As he rose through the ranks as a coal miner, union leader and labor activist Rusty endured many battles, one of which was the Pittston Strike. His experiences and his labor background made him a great fit for our LEAN Program. His message of understanding the need for change and working together resonated with our members because he had lived it. He understood that although we may have differences with the company most of the time if we understood what the issues were there was a way to work through the problems. Rusty was an integral part of our LEAN Program championing the cultural changes that we have needed to be successful. Rusty passed away on May 28, 2014. During his illness he continued to work for the IUE and during all of this, his determination to help our members and the working people of this country never wavered. Rusty was a true Trade Unionist, a friend and a part of our family. He will be dearly missed.

The IUE-CWA Resource Manual Is Here To Help

All IUE-CWA Locals recently received a new and updated Officer Resource Manual from IUE Headquarters in Dayton, Ohio. The four inch binder includes a variety of materials which will help Local officers do their jobs more effectively and efficiently and help their locals take advantage of all IUE national programs and union benefits. The project of compiling the information and building the manuals was time consuming, but they should be a great resource for our Locals! If your local did not receive an Officer Resource Manual, contact IUE headquarters!
At the 2014 IUE Division meeting, the newly revised and updated New Member Kit was distributed to Local Presidents. The kit includes the booklet "IUE: A Proud History, A Proud Future," and a variety of information on everything from NLRB rights for members to political program and health and safety and even a booklet on parliamentary procedure. A welcome letter from President Clark is also included, as are IUE pins, magnets, and stickers for our new members. Division Meeting attendees also viewed the 2014 New Hire Video, and received a copy of the video to use at their locals during orientation for new members. Locals not in attendance will receive a copy of the New Member Kit and Video in the mail. Because of the cost of putting the packets together, locals should only order New Member Kits when employers are actively hiring, and should not order more packets than they need.

Please give two weeks notice on ordering new hire packets, and direct any questions to Administrative Director Laura Hagan at lhagan@iue-cwa.org.
IUE-CWA: THE NEXT GEN!
Apply for the 2015 Mentorship Program

2014 marked the first year of IUE-CWA’s innovative new mentorship program, which is aimed at identifying and training the next generation of union activists. This program has begun training 10 younger members, pairing them with established local leaders for a year of solidarity and labor education. The 2014 mentees come to us from a diversity of geography, work environments and backgrounds, including members from coal country in Appalachia, right-to-work states like Mississippi and Texas, as well as from our core density in the industrial Midwest, and the Northeast. So far, the group has attended an orientation in Dayton, Ohio that included training on coalition building, labor history and basic union skills. They came together for further training at the Division meeting in Orlando. And the group stays in touch monthly on a Facebook page, as well as through phone calls with their mentors.

When Division Meeting keynote speaker Liz Schuler heard about IUE-CWA’s innovative mentorship program, she was eager to meet our NextGen union activist and learn more about the program. At a special breakfast before the meeting, Ms. Schuler shared her own story of how she went from being a young union member to becoming one of the AFL-CIO’s most powerful women leaders. She also answered questions from the group about the AFL-CIO’s plans to reinvigorate our movement, and she asked the mentees and mentors to tell her about their experiences and their lives. See photo of mentorship group at the Division meeting on front page. IUE-CWA is currently seeking the 2015 class of younger members to become participants in this exciting program.

Benefits of this program include:
• Invaluable one-on-one training from experienced union leaders;
• A national-level view of union democracy in action;
• Participation in union events held throughout the country.

Each month, these young leaders engage with labor’s past, its present, and its path forward using tools like labor movies, speakers, Facebook and discussion groups. Most of the program takes place in the mentees’ own community through distance-learning, but on four occasions per year, the union will bring the participants together at one of IUE-CWA’s many national meetings or trainings. There is no set age limit, but applicants should be among our younger members, approximately 40 years old or younger. Applicants must have been a union member for at least one year, and must be willing to travel four times over the next year for meetings, with plenty of advanced notice to schedule and expenses paid by the IUE-CWA. Preference will be given to members who are not officers, and who have never attended a national meeting or training. Women and members of color are encouraged to apply.

To obtain an application and a more detailed program description, please call or email Helen Kalbaugh at hkalbaugh@iue-cwa.org or 937-298-9985. Applicants must seek the endorsement of their Local (locals may endorse more than one applicant) and applications must be postmarked, emailed, or faxed by Sept 1, 2014. We look forward to this opportunity to meet the best and brightest young folks from our Locals, and to ensure that the future of our movement is in good hands. Please spread the word to those you think might be interested!

IUE-CWA Staff Rep’s son on this season of ‘MasterChef’

Tyler Viars, son of IUE-CWA Staff Representative, Todd Viars, hopes to be one of the best competitors in the network culinary competition “MasterChef!” Tyler Viars cooked a pork butt for 21 hours in Wilmington, placed it on hot bricks in a cooler, and drove it to the state capital to audition for the Fox television show “MasterChef.”

“It smelled like heaven in a cooler,” said Viars, referring to the moment he presented his dish.

He served the sample of smoked pork butt on top of an Ohio State University Buckeyes tablecloth with eastern Carolina sauce and Cleveland barbecue sauce in OSU shot glasses for dipping. He added a side of his homemade slaw.

“It was packed in Columbus that day,” Viars said. “It’s not just one audition and boom you’re in. There is a lot more afterwards.”

But he continued on, despite the odds, and Viars smoked his competition at the October auditions and is still in the running on the show.

His inspiration for cooking started with his mom in their home kitchen. His mother assigned him to make the family’s favorite charcuterie, “he loves the competition. He hopes to visit Wilmington in the future and host a culinary celebration.

“Friends” of Viars can follow him on Facebook or add him on Twitter and Instagram @mc5viars for updates about his Wilmington and “MasterChef” endeavors. Also follow Tyler’s social media hashtag #cookincamino!

Season five of “MasterChef” airs on FOX. Check your local listings and let’s cheer on one of our own! I’m sure the Viars family will be thrilled to know we are rooting for Tyler!

IUE-CWA Activists Attend CWA Legislative, Political, and Movement-Building Conference

IUE-CWA members gathered from around the country to participate in the 2014 CWA Legislative, Political and Movement Building Conference in Washington DC in May. The theme of this year’s conference focused on Building a Movement for Working people. Over 400 IUE-CWA members and allies were in attendance at the conference, including coalition partners representing over 40 organizations. Keynote speakers included Reverend Benjamin Barber, leader of the North Carolina “Moral Mondays” movement, US Senator Sherrod Brown, and Former House Speaker Nancy Pelosi. IUE-CWA activists attended workshops on issues ranging from protecting voting rights, fighting back against “right to work” and working to build local coalition partnerships. The conference also included a rally against the TPP at Capitol Hill. Over 1,000 activists gathered in the pouring rain to say No to TPP and No to Fast Track. IUE-CWA members then headed to the Hill with other CWA members to lobby their members of Congress on the TPP. This activism is key to us holding this line on TPP!

IUE-CWA members participate in “Political Boot Camp” program in Texas

IUE-CWA members across Texas have been participating in “Political Boot Camp” training sessions to build their skills and engage in political activism in their locals. Members from IUE-CWA Local 1029 in Corpus Christie participated in a training with other CWA members from their area, pictured above. These trainings will help our members get engaged in their local communities, and key political and legislative issues that affect our members and working people.

Boot camp trainings will be held in many states leading into summer through fall.

U.S. Transportation Secretary visits IUE-CWA Local 765 plant in Ohio

Transportation Secretary Anthony Foxx paid a visit in April to IUE-CWA Local 765’s plant in Norwood Ohio to celebrate the launching of a new product line at Siemens. Members of Local 765 are building a motor that is being placed in new Amtrak locomotives on the East Coast. In the future Local 765 members hope to help build motors for new high-speed rail too. Revamping our American transportation system is a key component of not only providing high-quality public transportation in our country, but also for growing high-quality, union-represented manufacturing jobs. The new work at the 765 plant is a great example of the opportunity we have in the transportation sector. To promote the growth of our transportation system, and in turn, good jobs, IUE-CWA has joined the “Jobs to Move America” coalition. This group is working to build better, cleaner public transit systems, to create and retain good manufacturing jobs, and to generate opportunities for unemployed Americans like veterans, single parents, and residents of low-income neighborhoods.
With Congress at a stalemate, have you ever wondered how laws are still being passed and implemented, laws that affect us every day as active or retired workers? Where do these laws come from, how are they being funded, who is going to benefit, and who are they going to hurt?

I want to tell you about a secretive organization called “ALEC.” ALEC stands for American Legislative Exchange Council. ALEC is a secretive collaboration between lobbyists, big business and conservative politicians. Funded by the super-rich Koch brothers and other one-percenters, ALEC meets yearly at different plush resorts, and behind closed doors, together, they ghost-write “model” bills to be introduced in state capitols across the country. They write bills to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws, to privatize education, break unions, deregulate major industries, pass voter ID laws.

Because of the Washington gridlock ALEC works to get the bulk of their laws introduced and passed at the state level, not at the national level. Their strategy works because many state governments are run by pro-big business conservatives (thanks to republican Gerrymander-ing). ALEC’s agenda also includes major tax loopholes for big industries and for the super rich. They have written laws to offshore U.S. jobs, to gut minimum wage, and weaken public health, safety and environmental protections are written and introduced to the State Legislatures, down to the last semicolon. They choose clever titles for their legislation, and most of these proposals sound as if they would be good for workers—but they are not! ALEC sponsored bills devastate active and retired workers.

I first heard about ALEC at the Alliance of Retired Americans Convention this year. I was blown away. I couldn’t believe what I was hearing. I went back to my room and “Googled” ALEC. There is much information on the internet about how this secretive organization and its corporate and legislative power is slowly changing our country. If you get the chance, please get on your computer and look up “ALEC.” It’s scary!

It’s real and it’s happening!! Remember this information in the voting booth in November! Make a stand for what’s right and your rights!

Keep fighting the good fight!

The Summer Heat is On!

Summer is a time for more leisure activities, fun, and vacations, but health condition can be affected by summer heat. Medications, diet, exertion levels and other limitations should all be considered when you are out enjoying the summer weather.

If you are taking any medications, be sure to read your labels. Many medications indicate that you should stay out of direct sunlight or drink plenty of fluids while taking those medications. If you are on a special diet, be sure to consult your doctor or nutritionist and ask questions as to whether the summer heat is a factor. Other side effects and possible interactions are less obvious.

According to www.comfortkeepers.com: “Hot weather can accelerate dehydration, especially in people who are taking medications that have the side effects of fluid and electrolyte loss. Many medications, particularly antibiotics and diuretics can block the body’s natural ability to cope with the sun and heat.

We want to send out get well wishes to Ray Oost, President of Local 808 retirees.

Ray was a long time office of Local 808 which represented workers at the Evansville, Indiana Whirlpool refrigeration plant, holding a variety of offices within the Local Union. In 1998 he was appointed to the position of Southwestern Indiana United Way Labor Liaison. In Ray’s job with United Way he assisted local unions with retraining issues, unemployment insurance assistance, worker compensation assistance, strike assistance, counseling assistance for union members and helped coordinate the labor part of the annual United Way campaign. In 2009 Ray retired from United Way and from Whirlpool and became active in the Local 808 Retiree organization. Ray was elected President of the Local 808 retirees at the end of 2011 and still serves in that position.”

On Wednesday, June 4, 2014, the IUE-CWA sponsored a Retiree health fair in Dayton, Ohio from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. The event took place outside at the Dayton History Museum, under a huge tent. The weather wasn’t agreeable; it rained during most of event. Despite the rain, the event was a success. We had forty-four health care vendors, and we offered number of different health screenings for our retired members. Over six hundred retirees from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky attended. All of the vendors and two of our larger Dayton IUE-CWA Locals supported the event either financially or with door prizes. Everyone was eligible for the door prize drawings, but retirees who are members of the Retired Member Program and who pay the three dollars per month retiree union dues were eligible for the more valuable prizes. It was a great turn out for a gloomy day. If you have a large number of IUE retirees in your area and are interested in helping plan a health fair, contact IUE Retiree Coordinator Keith Bailey at 937-224-5219.

On Medicare? Important Hospital Stay Information!

People on Medicare who spend one or two nights in the hospital are finding out, and often too late, that they weren’t really “admitted” to the hospital. This can be a costly discovery. Even though they were in a bed in a hospital room, the hospital may have categorized them as being there for “observation,” rather than being formally “admitted.” This is costly because Medicare might not pay the tab for a rehab facility or a nursing home, even if a physician releases the patient to an outside facility to recover from a fall or stroke. Or Medicare might not pay for a visiting nurse when the patient goes home. To get full benefits from Medicare after hospitalization, patients must be admitted as “inpatients” for at least three midnight (this is called the “three night rule”) and any nights spent under observation do not count. According to the Medicare website, “If you’re in the hospital more than a few hours, you or a family member should always ask your doctor or the hospital staff if you’re an inpatient or an outpatient. Make sure to ask each day during your stay.” There are many reasons that hospitals use “observation” instead of admitting people (some of them are good reasons that benefit patients and some of them are simply cost savings) and hospitals’ use of observation status is rising. Please be aware! It is critical to know your patient status during any hospital stay. Being “observed” but not admitted may lead to high and unexpected charges for which patients are responsible. As Medicare warns on its website: “Find out if you’re an inpatient or an outpatient—it affects what you pay.”
